

San Diego Reader

- News Ticker

Judge sanctions Jehovah's Witnesses

1 0

Imposes $4000-a-day penalty for not producing documents in sex-abuse case

By Dorian Hargrove, June 24, 2016

- Facebook
- Twitter
- Google+

 Share

- Email
- Story alerts
- Letter to Editor
- Pin it

A San Diego Superior Court judge has ordered the Church of Jehovah's Witnesses, also known as the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Pennsylvania, to pay $4000 a day for every day that it fails to produce documents requested in a civil lawsuit brought by former parishioner, Osbaldo Padron, who claims a church elder sexually abused him when he was seven years old.

In a June 23 ruling, expected to be made final today, judge Richard Strauss admonished the church for willfully ignoring a court order to produce all documents associated with a 1997 Body of Elders letter that church leaders sent to parishes around the world in a quest to learn about sexual abuse of children by church leaders.

Over the course of the past year, the Watchtower Society and its lawyers have fought hard to keep the letter confidential, claiming that turning over the documents would infringe on the privacy of those mentioned in the letter that were not associated with the case.

In March 2015, the church turned over a heavily redacted version of the letter. Opposing attorneys called the redactions excessive, rendering the document illegible. Judge Strauss then assigned a discovery referee to sit with the two sides. But having a referee involved didn't solve matters. Repeatedly, the Watchtower Society has stated that it will not comply with the order.

"By the time of the hearing on the motion for sanctions, it will have been over a year since the initial order and almost three months since the [referee's recommendation] was adopted," reads Strauss's ruling. "In the period since... Watchtower has shown no effort or willingness to comply with the discovery order.

"Based upon the history in this case and Watchtower's statements... the court finds that Watchtower's failure to comply is willful... Watchtower clearly has control over the documents it has already produced and could revise the redactions with regard to those documents. This is obviously and clearly within the scope of Watchtower's powers which it chooses not to exercise. Continuing to repeat its prior unsuccessful arguments in opposition to the discovery order further illustrates Watchtower's obstinacy in compliance."

In 2014 a San Diego Superior Court judge awarded 37-year-old José Lopez \$13.5 million for damages as a result of sexual abuse he suffered at the hands of longtime church member Gonzalo Campos. In that case the judge found that church headquarters was aware of sexual abuse by church leaders and had tried to cover up the abuse. The church is in the process of appealing the decision.

The case was one of several against Campos.

Padron filed his lawsuit in 2013. In his lawsuit, Padron claims that the church was aware of Campos's abuse, dating as far back as 1982 when his 12-year-old roommate accused the then-18-year-old Campos of trying to have sex with him. The abuse, claims Padron and others, continued; and, during that time church leaders at the Playa Pacific Spanish Congregation in Linda Vista continued to give Campos more of a leadership role in the congregation.

From 1987 to 1994, Campos was accused of numerous assaults. In 1994 a parent of one of Campos's alleged victims wrote a letter to the congregation and church headquarters requesting an investigation. The letter did little. That same year was when the abuse began for Padron. According to his 2013 complaint, Campos molested Padron on numerous occasions from 1994 to 1995.

Two years later, the church sent their Body of Elders letter to congregations worldwide. The contents of the letter have never been made public, and it is unclear whether Campos was one of the members accused of sexually assaulting children.

Now, with Strauss's ruling, it appears that the church may be forced to change its tack. A civil trial is scheduled for August 19.

Padron's attorneys did not respond to requests for comment.

- Facebook
- Twitter
- Google+

 Share

- Email
- Story alerts
- Letter to Editor
- Pin it

More from SDReader

More stories by Dorian Hargrove

- Tough to build Jehovah's Witness sex-abuse case — April 24, 2016
- Judge to Goldsmith: Turn 'em over — Oct. 9, 2014
- Goldsmith to argue against his own legal opinion — Aug. 29, 2014
- Do U-T Lawyers Read the Paper? — July 13, 2006
- New Life Presbyterian Church, La Mesa — Nov. 23, 2005

Comments

4 Comments

Sort by Oldest ▾

Add a comment...

Craig Perry Stevens · Owner at Wayne Manor

They wouldn't be hiding anything.

Like · Reply · 1 · 6 hrs

Kevin Haszard · Works at Kevin Haszard Photography

Oh really? They are always hiding something. That's what cults do.

Like · Reply · 10 · 5 hrs

John Sanchez

Then why was it so heavily redacted if they didn't need to hide anything? Genius.

Like · Reply · 5 · 4 hrs · Edited

Gordon Zaretzki · Freedom, California

How can you conscientiously sugarcoat what is blatantly covering up for pedophiles Craig!??

Like · Reply · 2 · 2 hrs

Show 1 more reply in this thread ▾

Bob Gearhart · David Starr Jordan, Long Beach, CA

So much for transparency... smh.

Like · Reply · 4 · 4 hrs

Enigmas Valdez · Works at H&R Block

LOL Bob Gearhart the words transparency and Jehovah's Witnesses do NOT go together

Like · Reply · 5 · 3 hrs

Bob Gearhart · David Starr Jordan, Long Beach, CA

Enigmas Valdez, they want the congregations to show every f!@#ing penny spent, but the headquarters can pay millions out on lawsuits without having to answer to it... smh.

Like · Reply · 3 · 3 hrs

Bob Gearhart · David Starr Jordan, Long Beach, CA

Arrogant bastards...

Like · Reply · 3 · 3 hrs

Show 1 more reply in this thread ▾

Brinjen Russell · Federation University Australia

As always, the WTBTs believes they are above the law.

Like · Reply · 8 · 4 hrs

Enigmas Valdez · Works at H&R Block

Which is what they call "theocratic warfare"

Like · Reply · 3 · 3 hrs

NormaJean Bennett

Brinjen Russell, Maybe some of them will wind up in JAIL..

Like · Reply · 1 · 1 hr

William H. Bowen · National Director at Silentlambs

Want to see waste? $4,000 per day of WWW donated monies being spent for not obeying Caesar's laws. Do you think the GB are benign faithful and discreet?

Like · Reply · 5 · 2 hrs

Michael John Cox · Colne Primet High School

Governing Body - the 'faithful & discreet slave' ...rubbish !!!! They have never been faithful...and they most certainly are NOT discreet...they do NOT fit the simple criteria...they cannot be Jehovah's channel or choice of organisation like they claim...

Like · Reply · 1 hr

Sign in to comment

Username

- I have an account.
- I'm new.

Password Forgot?

Or login with:

OpenID

- Home
- About
- Contact us
- Site map
- Privacy
- Terms of use
- Advertise
- Digital edition
- Mobile site